Stellenbosch, South Africa, is considered haunted by locals and visitors, with numerous ghost stories stemming from its 17th-century colonial history, historic vineyards, and old university architecture. Reports include eerie occurrences in historic mansions and mysterious activity on old farms, frequently linked to the area's turbulent past. There are reports of Shadow People that are seen throughout Stellenbosch. Local Oratile Khumalo says that some tourists and locals have seen ghostly African wild dogs roaming around the hillsides.

Historic Vineyards and Mansions:

The Tokoloshe

Several visitors and guests have reported strange occurrences, such as finding doors unlocked that were previously locked. This has occurred in old historical Cape Dutch mansions found throughout the region. An apparition that has been seen is "the Blonde Lady". A local named Tyler Donpoint encountered the Blonde Lady and according to Tyler, you can only see her shoulders, head and long blonde hair. The "Tokoloshe" is possibly a cryptid that people have seen. While sightings are not exclusive for Stellenbosch, the cryptid is sometimes seen in other parts of South Africa. The Tokoloshe is described as a small, hairy, malevolent creature. A local named Leigh Botha says that he was chased by the Tokoloshe. When he reached his home, he had unexplained scratches on his torso.

PDR is amazed at the beauty of Stellenbosch, South Africa, let's find some ghosts!

University Folklore:

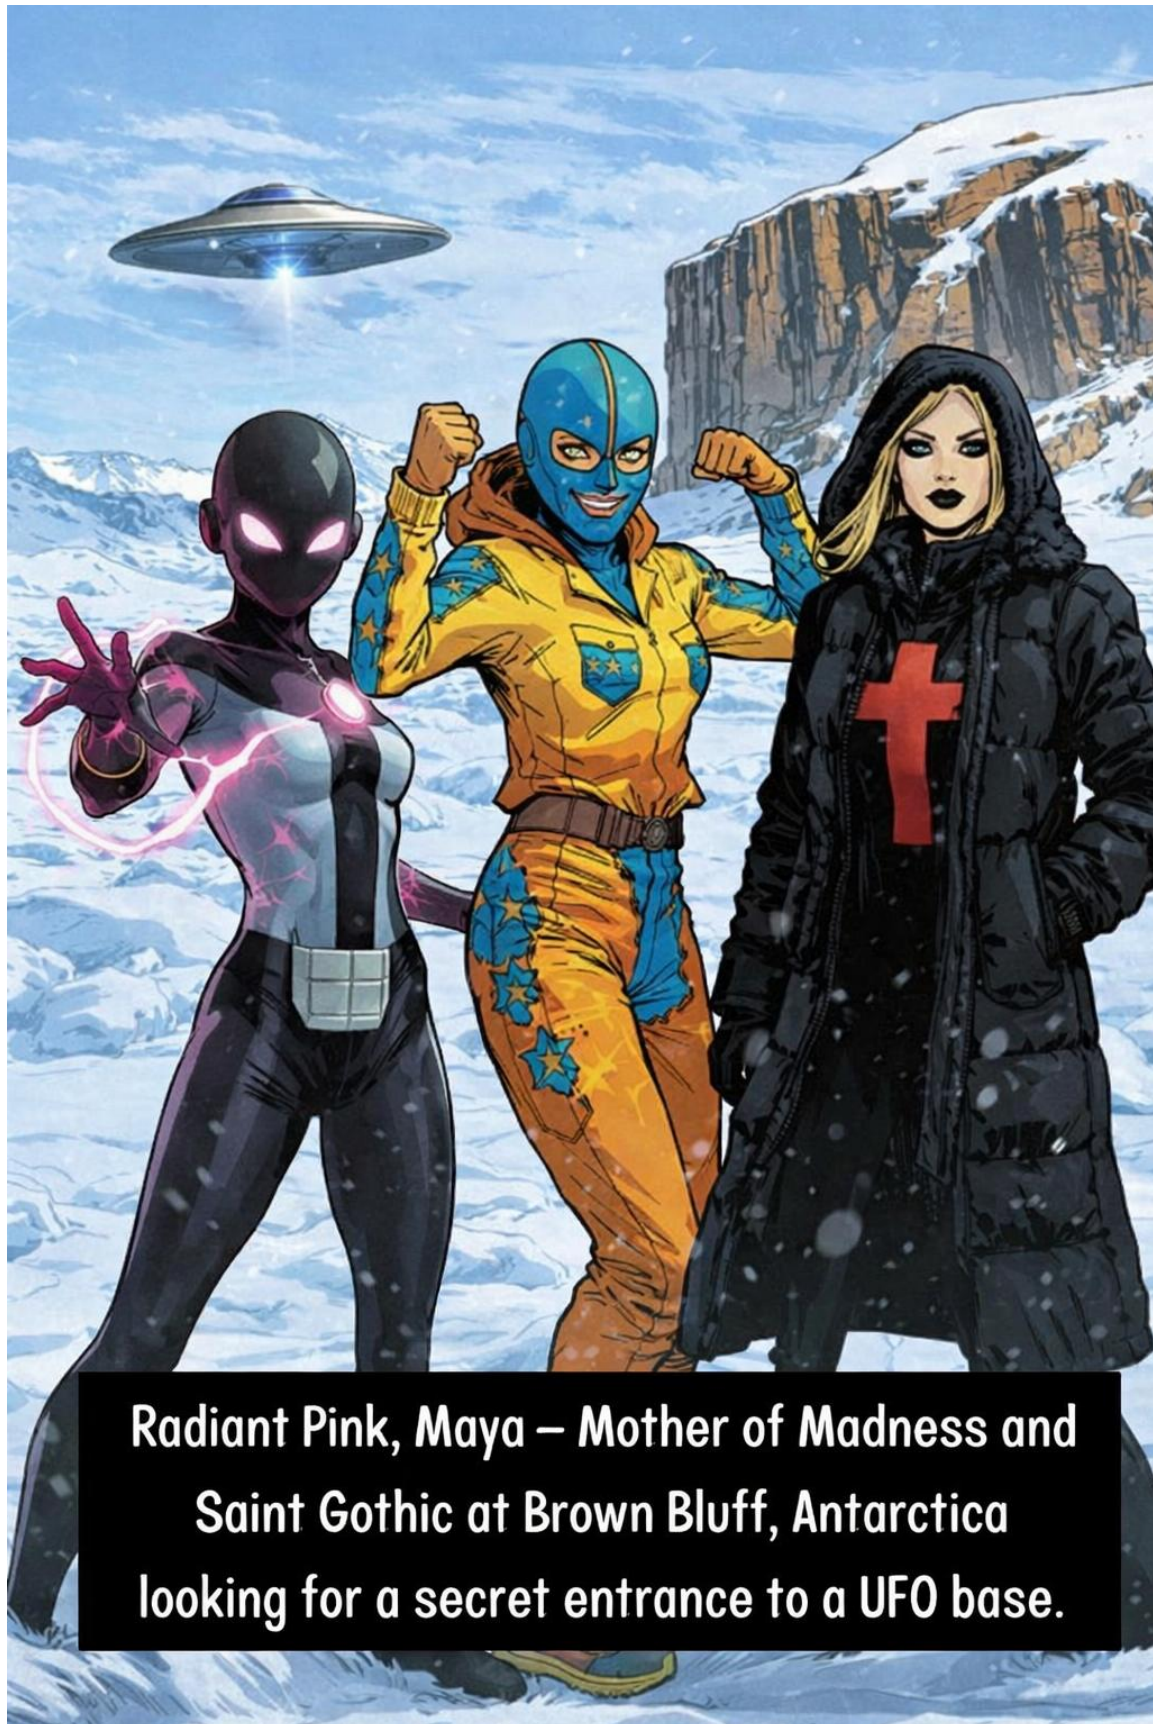

Similar to the, Lord Milner Hotel in nearby Matjiesfontein which is famous for its "ghostly card-shuffling nurse", many old buildings in the Stellenbosch region are rumored to have active spirits, often linked to the early Cape colonial period. While not as heavily documented in mainstream tourism as places like the Castle of Good Hope in Cape Town, the charm of Stellenbosch is often blended with tales of ghosts and folklore, making it a popular subject for local ghost stories. Stellenbosch is home to several locations with reported hauntings, rooted in its centuries-old history as one of South Africa's earliest colonial settlements. While many locals view these stories as urban legends, specific sites are frequently cited by paranormal enthusiasts and historians. South African paranormal investigators say that there are a lot of residual energy, and the people that have been interviewed sometimes see past events unfold and then disappear.

Franschhoek, South Africa

Located in the Franschhoek Valley (Stellenbosch municipality), this historic estate is famous for a "haunted farmhouse" where visitors and staff have reported mischievous spirits. Things get moved around. disembodied giggling is sometimes heard. People mention that spirits are known to open and close doors. Flicking light switches occur in the original homestead's tasting room. A fun place for tourists, the farm offers guided historical walks that delve into the spooky history of the winelands.

Wilgenhof Men's ResidenceStellenbosch, South Africa

Recently, this 120-year-old men's residence gained notoriety as a "house of horrors" due to the discovery of secret rooms and disturbing initiation rituals. While more of a "metaphorical haunting" involving a toxic institutional culture, the discovery of two secret rooms used for decades has led to many labeling the building as having an eerie, dark past. Psychic Palesa Baloyi envisioned people being tied up and whipped. There are no historical records that mention people being tied up and whipped. Further research is needed. Jacob Walker visited the Wilgenhof Men's Residence and felt a ghostly kick to his leg. Jacob was in pain and when he left and got on the road, the pain faded away.

Merced, California, is considered by locals to have several haunted locations, particularly in historic buildings and downtown areas. Reported paranormal activity includes sightings of apparitions, phantom smells, and unexplained noises at sites such as the Merced Theatre, the Merced County Courthouse Museum, and near Lake Yosemite. HPI (Halo Paranormal Investigations) has investigated several locations in Merced. We also investigated 4 private homes in Merced. Let's look at some of the haunted locations in Merced.

Everett the ghost surprises docent at the Merced County Courthouse in Merced, CA

Merced County Courthouse Museum:

Known for a ghost named "Everett," a male figure in 1890s-1910s clothing often seen in the upper hallway. Ron Pirtle a former Merced police officer and now presently a docent has seen the full body apparition of Everett. Ron says: "It was an adult male dressed in turn-of-the-century type of clothes, maybe 1890 to 1910". He had mutton chops, brushed back hair. He had a light complexion, he was dressed in a dark suit with a white ascot. He wore dark boots." Things get moved around a lot at this museum. What is annoying is when you set your cell phone in one place and all of a sudden, it's gone. You look around and find it in a completely different location. Everett can get on a person's nerves by hiding objects.

Merced Theatre:

The historic Merced Theatre in Merced, California, is rumored to be haunted, featuring prominently in local ghost stories. Reports include legends of a ghost named Johnny that haunts the theater tower. A female ghost is heard yelling "Johnny!" The ghost of Johnny has been reported leaping from the tower.

Greenbriar House (21st Street):

The Greenbriar House (Victorian home) on 21st Street in Merced, California, is considered haunted and is known for local ghost stories. Passersby have reported smelling tobacco smoke, allegedly from a ghost who smoked his pipe in the kitchen. Others have described feeling a presence inside the Victorian home, particularly in the basement.

Lake Yosemite:

Stories of a woman seen in the dark, allegedly calling for her son. Danny Travis was hiking near Lake Yosemite and kept hearing a woman yelling for Timmy. Danny went to where he heard the woman's voice, only to find there was no one there. Lake Yosemite is at Yosemite National Park. Lake Yosemite is about 1 hour and 30 minutes from Merced. Sometime, I will write about the paranormal activity at Yosemite National Park. Yosemite has many stories. Here are a few of those stories. Grouse Lake is particularly infamous, with tales of a ghostly boy who lures hikers to his doom. The Ahwahnee Hotel is rumored to be haunted by the spirit of Mary Curry Tressider, who is said to roam the halls. Tenaya Canyon is known as the "Bermuda Triangle" of Yosemite, with numerous strange occurrences reported. Many visitors of Yosemite National Park wind up missing, vanishing from the trails. Some hikers say that there is a lot of negative energy at the areas where serial killer Cary Stayner aka Yosemite Park Killer committed his murders. Additionally, the park is home to various other ghostly legends, including the Nightcrawlers and the curse of Chief Tenaya. The Curse of Chief Tenaya is a legendary curse placed on Tenaya Canyon in Yosemite in the 1850s, after American settlers killed the son of the Ahwahnechee leader. Tenaya cursed the white men, promising they would not live in peace and would suffer in the canyon, leading to its reputation for fatal, mysterious accidents. The most prominent legend is the "Lady of the Lake," a ghost with long white hair and a white gown. She is said to walk the surface of the lake or the tower's catwalk, searching for her lost child or lover.

Merced County Fairground Pavilion:

Yes, the Fairground Pavilion in Merced, CA, is rumored to be haunted, according to local ghost stories. The hauntings are reportedly linked to unexplained electrical issues and the ghost of a man who allegedly died during a boxing match at the venue. Don Logan of Fresno, CA saw a bare-chested, bare-knuckled boxer walking around and then vanishing. Don says that one of his ears is a cauliflower ear. Don calls him "Rocky the Ghost". When Don first saw him, he thought he was a real boxer. When he vanished, Don realized he saw a ghost.

Haunted Mansion (private location):

Woman in old-fashioned clothing is said to haunt a local home. A benevolent spirit that is said to watch over the family. Additionally, the Merced area is rich with history, including dozens of ghost towns in the surrounding county, such as Athlone and Merced Falls. People have seen apparitions at some of these ghost towns. Ghost hunting groups have captured many EVPs. Ghost hunter Suzy Horstman was looking at a mirror and saw the ghost of a woman behind her. The ghost was wearing 19th century clothing.

The Tioga Apartment building Merced, CA

Jeremiah Willard (a visitor) encountered a ghoulish being on the 4th floor. Jeremiah felt the being was demonic. Jeremiah claims a couple that lived in this apartment complex played around with a Ouija Board and practiced the dark arts. The Tioga Hotel (now apartments) in Merced, CA, is widely considered one of the most haunted places in the county, often featured in local ghost stories. People say the ghoulish being is malevolent and has scratched people. Then there is the Murdered Manager. Some stories suggest the building is haunted by the spirit of a former manager who was murdered. Reported activity includes strange happenings with the elevator, unexplainable, often scary sounds, and movement in the lower-level taproom. The building is a 1928 Art Deco structure that was converted from a historic hotel into apartments, with residents and locals keeping the ghost stories alive.

Bloss Mansion Atwater, CA

Located in nearby Atwater, this historic mansion is frequently cited in local paranormal investigations for having active spirits. Billy Springer of San Mateo has seen 2 little red-haired boys playing with a red ball. He also heard that ball hitting against the wall and when he went outside to investigate, there was nothing hitting the wall. Then when he went back into the mansion, he heard the ball hitting the wall again.

Applegate Park

Local childhood stories often mention a haunting near the old rocket ship jungle gym. People have seen a little blonde-haired girl walking in the park and then disappearing. Other people have heard a little girl giggling.

The Head Collector at Letchworth State Park in New York. Dracula is not too far behind watching.

LETCHWORTH VILLAGE: IS IT HAUNTED?

Yes, Letchworth Village in Thiells, NY, is widely considered haunted and is a popular spot for ghost hunters and urban explorers. It is infamous for horrific patient abuse, overcrowding, and unethical polio vaccine testing in the 1950s, leading to reports of apparitions, uneasy feelings, and disembodied voices on the grounds.

Key Details About the Allegedly Haunted Location:

- Location & History: Opened in 1911 as a residential institution for the physically and mentally disabled, the site has over 130 abandoned buildings spread across 2,000 acres.
- The "Haunting" Reports: Visitors have reported various paranormal experiences, particularly in the Reville Hospital Building, which some call one of the most haunted in the world.
- "Boys' Group": This area is frequently mentioned by urban explorers for having a particularly dark and creepy atmosphere.
- Reputation: The institution gained national attention in 1972 following a Geraldo Rivera exposé regarding the neglectful conditions, which contributes to the dark history fueling ghost stories.
- Status: While popular with urban explorers, the ruins are largely unsafe and monitored.

Paul's Message: I talked with Nathan Durham of Trenton, New Jersey. Nathan says that he has investigated Letchworth Village with his sister. While investigating, they heard screams, moaning. Nathan said it sounded like people were in pain. Nathan and his sister captured a lot of EVPs. In 2 of the EVPs you can hear distant screaming. Nathan says he captured a lot of orb activity in his photos. The orbs are inconclusive. Nathan says he felt dizzy in certain areas and his sister was touched twice. His sister was touched on the arm and then touched on her neck. Nathan confirms that Letchworth Village is definitely haunted.

DNCE - Cake by the Ocean

On this night, we investigated an apartment in Oroville. This is a confidential investigation. Names and location of the actual investigation have been fictionalized. The occupant Shirley and her son Matthew tell me and Deanna Jaxine Stinson - HPI Co-Owner and Sensitive the following:

Shirley at times smells a permanent solution and the smell can be very strong and then it dissipates.

GROWLER of OROVILLE!

Shirley was once pushed downstairs and when she recovered from the fall, she had 3 scratch marks on her back.

Sometimes things go missing, but then they come back to their original spot.

Matthew has seen a dark figure with his peripheral vision, he has also heard a male voice and seen darting dark shadows.

Sometimes the occupants smell aftershave, then the smell stops unexpectedly.

The occupants have heard knocking at the door, located near the shower. The occupant mentions that the apartment complex is 44 years old and one known death was a girl that lived at the apartment complex was crossing the street and struck by a car, killing her.

Sometimes the occupants hear knocking at the closet door and the lights will turn off and on.

Shirley tells us that one time a chair spun around on it's own accord and on top of the chair was a video camera.

Shirley says that at times she has nightmares and one nightmare she was being chased by an unknown entity and she was screaming and running down the road.

The knocking on the walls, could be residual haunting - the former occupants that once lived in her apartment were involved in domestic violence and the male occupant was known to hit his fist into the walls.

WHAT DEANNA SENSED:

As Deanna walked up the stairs, she was touched and received instant goosebumps.

Deanna was compelled to go towards the bedroom window and there is something across the street, it could be the barbershop or this one odd looking building. She felt that the energy in this apartment could originate from one of these two buildings across the street. We later learn from Shirley that the odd building actually caught on fire 6 years ago. Maybe, just maybe if this odd building was haunted, the entities may have come to this apartment after the fire. Just a theory I threw out there.

Deanna felt more energy at a certain area of Matthew's room and felt some kind of energy around the two stars in Matthew's room.

The more Deanna was tuning in with the entity, she began to feel that the entity as not malicious, but was more restless than anything else.

EVP SESSION:

During our EVP session, Deanna asks the entity: "Do you have a message for us?" The entity: GROWLS!

Deanna felt more energy around the edge of Shirley's bedroom and in the middle of the steps. This is where the EVP was captured.

THE CLEANSING:

Deanna smudged with Eucalyptus wands- reinforced with Palo Santo wood and Rosemary. I conducted a Roman Catholic house blessing. When entering the home the first time, the air felt thick. You could feel a negative presence in the atmosphere. After the cleansing, the air was lighter. Special Note: Tonight when I got home, I started feeling sick. I felt nauseated and was having a hard time breathing. I eventually vomited. I had to sit up on the couch, as my breathing was erratic. After it started becoming normal, I was finally able to lay down. In the morning, I felt better. I don't know if this has anything to do with the investigation, but I thought I would mention it.

BELOW ARE HPI UPDATES, NEWS AND GOSSIP!

After my wife Deanna Jaxine Stinson has her coffee, it's time to feed a frequent visitor. Meet Titus the Squirrel who comes by our backyard every morning to see what goodies we have for him. This time he scored some bread pudding made by Deanna.

Titus and his buddies usually visit our backyard to see if there are any goodies for them to eat. It's always enjoyable to wake up in the morning and see squirrels in our backyard.

At one time, we used to buy a squirrel food and the squirrels would flock during the day and at nighttime came the rats. Because the rats were coming, we had to stop feeding the squirrels.

Comments: Fun read, superb artwork! Loved Happy the Cat, a very memorable character. Things really got started in this story, as our main characters search out a magic shop and find Magic Store 32x3. Salamander the Fire Dragon shows up and the women cannot resist his charm. The crowd goes into a frenzy when he shows up. Salamander has the fan appeal that rivals a big star like George Clooney. This Fire Wizard knows how to perform and the girls salivate to get near him. The Fire Wizard aka Salamander is definitely a player and his entourage of women will bring out his dark side. If he can get these girls on his yacht, he can enslave them, in fact his yacht is a slave ship. Good read, lots of drama, lots of intrigue.

Okay, Josh Gates of Destination Truth, here is one for you to check out! Haaron who now resides in Los Angeles called me and told me about the mysterious animal that was attacking the people in Madhya Pradesh, India. Haaron claims to have actually seen the beast with his own eyes. Haaron says that he was visiting his family in Madhya Pradesh and saw with his own eyes a creature jumping from roof-to-roof. I asked Haaron to describe the beast and this is what he said in his own words.

Haaroon: "The beast looked to be gray, hunched over. You know people with braided hair on sunny islands by Florida, this is the kind of hair it had." Paul: "You mean dreadlocks?" Haaroon: "Yes, I think dreadlocks. This monster have dreadlocks, bright red dreadlocks and shiny bright green eyes." Paul: "What was this creature doing, when you saw it?" Haaroon: "It leap from one rooftop to another, at one point of time, it looked at me, it kind of snarled. It has big teeth, pointy teeth." Paul: "What was the size?" Haaroon: "Size like big dog, maybe German shepherd. Run on 2 stubby legs, sometimes runs on 4 legs, all stubby legs." Paul: "Did it do anything else besides jumping from roof-to-roof?" Haaroon: "Sure, it zap in air!" Paul: "Huh? Zap in air, what do you mean?" Haaroon: "You know zap in air, it go away, it gone. If close eyes for one second, it gone." Paul: "Are you saying it vanished, it disappeared?" Haaroon: "Yes, vanished." Paul: "Wow! Then it could be interdimensional." Haaroon: "I don't know this interdimensional." Paul: "No big deal, thinking out loud." Paul: "Did this creature attack you?" Haaroon: "No." End of interview by phone.

There are many recent reports coming out of Madhya Pradesh of a mysterious beast that has been attacking people. I do not know if there are any other descriptions of this beast, but according to Haaroon, he saw the creature first hand and his description of the beast is very frightening.

Is it possible that The Madhya Pradesh Goblin is a close cousin to Spring Heeled Jack? Spring Heeled Jack was committing his roof-to-roof leaps during the Victorian era. He was known to jump extraordinary high. The first sighting occurred in 1837. Spring Heeled Jack was mostly seen in England. Some theorize that Spring Heeled Jack was an interdimensional creature or even an alien of some sort. This creature wore an oilskin garment, helmet and black cloak. If Spring Heeled Jack is an alien, then perhaps he was stranded here on Earth. During this brief stay while stranded, his appearance terrified the citizens of London, Sheffield and Liverpool. Some witnesses claimed he could breathe out blue and white flames and looked to be the 'devil'.

Hmmm...So, perhaps The Madhya Pradesh Goblin is a different variety of Spring Heeled Jack. Sort of like the variety of humans we have on this world. Eskimos do not look like the people of China, nor do Chinese look Mayan. If a Mayan was seen on planet Mars by Martians, they would describe the Mayan as being different from a variety of human from Sweden.

It will be interesting to see how long the sightings in Madhya Pradesh last. When there are a multitude of witnesses seeing this monster, there must be some kind of substance of truth to this story.

Now onto other things. Let's check out on the HPI News and Reports!

Follow-up to the 9/11/09 DeGregorio Investigation:

After we left the investigation, some invisible force started rubbing on Cara DeGregorio's back. Cara asked the entity to stop and it did. The psychics of the group picked up on the name Eduardo and recently Cara found some old mail that had the name Ed Bernard on it. Ed Bernard was a former occupant to the house that Cara lives in and I can only wonder if Ed Bernard is deceased?

Some Ghostly History of the Truckee Hotel:

The Truckee Hotel caught on fire 4 times and many souls were lost in the 1909 fire. People who stay at the hotel experience showers turning off and on by themselves. A ghost named Jeremiah rocks in a chair in one of the rooms. A kidnapped girl's ghost is seen on the 4th floor and she sometimes stands near a heater in one of the rooms. Of course the Donner Party was stranded on a snowy mountain near Truckee.

Katie Shaffer from Truckee says:

Visitors to Truckee can experience a spooky Halloween by booking a room at the River Street Inn or the Truckee Hotel in hopes of catching a ghostly glimpse or hearing a creaking floorboard created by former Truckee residents known to have occupied these historic buildings long ago. Locals tell tales of the spirit of a man who met his fate in the early 1900s when he broke his neck trying to escape a hotel fire at the Truckee Hotel. Housekeepers have recounted seeing an impression of a body on newly made beds and guests have reported strange noises in the night. The River Street Inn is known to harbor a female prankster who lurks in the stairwell. Beyond these spooky lodging facilities, visitors can ask the sales clerks at Dylan's Delights about strange shadows in the basement of the store which is open to the public, or indulge in a glass of wine at Trio Wine Bar located in the Krueger-White house, while being on the look out for a persistent ghost who likes to shut doors and move furniture after hours. Other Halloween festivities include a pumpkin carving contest, sponsored by the Truckee Downtown Merchants Association. For more info on Truckee, visit www.Truckee.com
